MAY MARRY A DUKE.

Daughter of a Philadelphia Gardener Falls Heir to $15,000,000.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 14.—A remarkable romance in real life has come to light by the sudden and unexpected inheritance of a fortune of $15,000,000 by the 25-year-old daughter of a poor gardener, William Kelly. The legacy comes from the estate of a long-dead uncle, Peter Kelly, who amassed a vast fortune in the Australian gold fields over 30 years ago. Peter Kelly was living with his parents in Lancashire, England, when the Australian gold craze broke out, and he went to that land to make his fortune. Nothing was heard of him until nearly a quarter of a century ago, his mother received word that he would soon return home a millionaire. He did not come however. Inquiry was begun, and the son's story of his millions was verified, part of the money being in Australian banks. The family received the interest on the fortune, which was valued at $15,000,000.

Some time ago William Kelly learned of the existence of a will in which all the estate was bequeathed to his eldest child Elizabeth. At first he made no effort to secure it. Two years ago he engaged an attorney, and it is declared that the enormous legacy will be placed at the disposal of the girl this week.

KNIGHTS OF LABOR

Addresses by Sovereign and Bishop.

REVOLT AGAINST THE OFFICERS

Reviewed by the General Master Workman—He Also Touches Upon Labor and Capital, and Says That a Money Oligarchy Is Fast Wiping Out the Last Vestige of Individual Liberty.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—The chief public interest in the meeting of the Knights of Labor yesterday were the addresses of General Master Workman Sovereign and General Worthy Foreman Michael J. Bishop.

Much of Mr. Sovereign's address was devoted to the alleged treachery of those who headed the revolt against the general officers of the order during the past year. He reviewed what he termed their "devilish treachery in their efforts to disrupt the order." He claimed that they had exhausted all their power maligning the general officers through the columns of the press, and discouraging the loyal and confiding members through secret agencies. They had publicly boasted that 65,000 members had joined the revolt. He explained the heroic methods which had been used to weed out the disloyalists, and said that today, for the first time, the order presented to the world a solid and unbroken front, battling for the brotherhood of man and the freedom of labor from the thralldom of greed Continuing, he said:

Labor is now between the devil and the deep sea. Capital has monopolized the elements of production and labor is in competition with itself for the right to live. A money oligarchy is fast wiping out the last vestige of individual liberty. Construction by judicial authority is already given to law, placing all labor organizations in the category of criminal conspiracies Misdemeanors of the most trivial character have been raised to felony without sanction of law and used to imprison representatives of labor organizations, and injunctions followed by charges of contempt have been used to condemn labor leaders to the felon's cell without evidence of guilt or trial by jury. The associated banks have declared war on the money of the people, and the whole plutocratic fraternity has invated the realm of free government and constitutional security.

He made some suggestions as to the best methods of strengthening the order, but the principal feature of the address was his appeal to the general assembly to give to his recent order boycotting national bank notes its official sanction. He denounced the action of the bankers' convention held at Atlanta and said.

After carefully reviewing the wreck and ruin wrought by the money power and the designs of the sound money clubs, which propose bonds and Gatling guns for a solution of the labor question, I issued a boycott on the notes of national banks, and if I were to die tomorrow I would declare it the most righteous act of my life. It exposed the unsound money of the sound money advocates, threw plutocracy on the defensive, and forced the national banks into a humiliating confession of their preposterous acts of bad faith with the people. And now I urge this general assembly to indorse that boycott and give it every possible force of official sanction The conflict between the working people and the idle holders of idle capital is inevitable. The wealth of the many is gravitating to the few with increasing ratio and labor is drifting toward serfdom faster than ever before

The address of General Worthy Foreman Bishop also dealt with the attacks made upon the Knights of Labor by the revolting members, but contains little of general importance beyond an appeal for stronger labor organizations because of the "abnormal progress made by concentrated wealth and the fact that it is constantly more firmly entrenching itself behind barriers which every day become more difficult to overflow." He called attention to the evolution of machinery during the last few years and the elimination of human skill from all forms of productive industry. "This has gone on," he said, "until the printer, the cigar maker, the locomotive engineer, the skilled worker in wood, and other craftsmen heretofore considered safe from the general danger, have this year seen the final quietus of their hopes In the near future 'common laborer' will be a fitting universal appellation."

DOUBLE MURDER AND SUICIDE.

The Recent Schuler Mystery at Laredo Solved.

LAREDO Tex., Nov. 14.—A murder most foul and in cruelty exceeding anything that has ever transpired in this vicinity, was unearthed yesterday morning. Various stories were circulated as to who the murderer was, and the murderer has been found dead, he having committed suicide at an early hour at the hotel, where he had registered Monday with a middle-aged woman and an 8-year-old girl as C. Schuler and family of San Antonio. The woman had stated that she and her husband were from St. Louis, and more recently from Fort Worth, where her son kept a hotel. Her husband had a position in view, she said, with a railroad company in Monterey, and they were to leave for that city Tuesday afternoon.

About 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon the man procured a horse and buggy, ostensibly to drive his wife and child to the depot. About 4:30 he returned the buggy and proceeded to the hotel, ate supper and retired to his room. Very early in the morning a Mexican shepherd discovered two bodies lying in some brush about three miles northeast of the city. He immediately notified the city officials, who brought the remains to the morgue. They were identified as having been seen with the so-called Schuler. The chief of police immediately called at the Hotel Hamilton, where he had registered. The proprietor, Mr. Christen, called to him over the transom and immediately received a response. He was asked where his wife and child were and that Mr. Christen desired to see him. He replied that he would come to the door very shortly, but after some delay a pistol shot was heard.

It was some time before the police could enter the room. The man was found lying dead upon the bed with a bullet in his heart. Under his pillow was found an insurance policy for $3,000 in his own favor, and a deed of trust executed for property in East St. Louis. Several letters were found in trunks from various persons, some addressed to William Kuntz, St. Louis and Fort Worth, several others to Mrs. Caroline Mann, East St. Louis and Dallas.

Over $1,600 in $100 bills were found upon the man's person, two watches and a charm with "Kuntz" engaved upon it. From papers found it appears that Kuntz is from St. Louis. A large photograph of the man who committed the murder, the same little girl, but another woman, perhaps 26 or 30 years of age, were found in his room. One letter addressed "Willie," written in German, evidently comes from Hoboken, N. J., or Kingston, N. Y. It was not signed. She calls him husband and asks for money.

MAY BE A TIE.

Sudden Death of a Member of Maryland Senate.

WESTMINSTER, Md., Nov. 14.—Senator-elect P. J. Bennett of Carroll county died suddenly last night. Mr. Bennett was elected as a Democrat. Governor Brown will be called upon to order a special election for Carroll county, and upon the result of that election depends the political complexion of the next senate of Maryland. With Mr. Bennett's vote that body stood 14 Democrats and 12 Republicans Should the Republicans elect a successor to Mr. Bennett the senate would be a tie, with Senator Bruce of Baltimore acting in harmony with the Republicans upon all reform measures.

JAPANESE PLUMS

To Be Distributed Without Partiality.

TEN WAR VESSELS TO BE BUILT.

Count Okuma Favors the Dividing of the Contracts Equally Between the Builders of the United States, England, Germany, France and Italy—Wants the Newest Style and Latest Improved.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 14.—Although Japanese officials have denied that the mikado will spend $200,000,000 in warships, it is reported in advices by the steamer Coptic that 10 vessels are to be built abroad, and that possibly the orders for them will be equally divided among the shipbuilders of England, France, Germany, Italy and the United States. Count Okuma is in favor of such a distribution of the prizes, and says in relation to orders for men-of war from abrod, that it would be advisable to give the contracts to any country that is capable of constructing good vessels of new style without limiting the orders to any one in particular. Leaving aside England and France, which are known as maritime provinces, the country should pay regard to Italy, although her shipbuilding capacity is not much known to Japan. She is the power which originated the idea of building the men-of-war of 10,000 tons, and thus commenced a new era in the construction of war vessels. Count Okuma further says next we should look to the United States, the excellence of her ironworks, the stability of the men-of-war built by her, and the richness in scientific design are not only what Americans are proud of, but even the old countries of Europe recognize these facts. Moreover, as the United States is our best customer in trade, and as her friendship is warm, she is also a power to whom contracts should be given. Besides these two countries are England, France and Germany, which each boast of their specialty, so that if 10 ships are to be built abroad, and the orders are equally distributed among these five powers, two to each, it would arouse competition between them and result in the empire's interest.

THE DEVIL OF NAMES

THE LECTURE DELIVERED BY DOCTOR LANCELEY, WEDNESDAY NIGHT,

At the Epworth Methodist Episcopal Church—Tonight He Delivers His Best Lecture, "One Another." By Request, and the Church Should Be Crowded To Hear Him.

When J. E. Lanceley, D.D., LL.D., of Toronto, Canada, during the recent Central Ohio conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, held in this city, had delivered three fine lectures to the ministers and visitors in attendance at the conference, the conference decided to ask him to lecture at its next session.

Dr. Lanceley told the conference at the time not to be too hasty in securing him as he had already given the conference his best. At the time it was thought that this was but undue modesty in the eminent speaker, but it now appears that it was a great and wholesome truth on his part, as the "Devil of Names," the lecture delivered by Dr Lanceley at the Epworth M. E church Wednesday night, was, in the estimation of the average auditor, far inferior to any of the three lectures heretofore delivered, "The Ministry of the Nose," "The Minister and His Theme" and "One Another."

Any one of the three was more beautiful in wording, in thought, in the humor which it displayed, and with any of them the lecturer appeared more at home, moving his audience this way and that without any apparent effort, while his effort of Wednesday night appeared disconnected and strained.

"The Devil of Names" was suggested to Dr. Lanceley, so he said, by the poem of the same name by Saxe and in his introduction he recited the poem, entire, which, it might well be said, was the finest thing in it.

The central idea of the speaker was to call attention to the tendency of the times to exaggerate, to cover up evil with sweet sounding names, to veil that which is bad, repulsive, offensive and low with names that will mislead, to sugar-coat, and he made an appeal for truth in all matters whether business, domestic, spiritual or otherwise.

The theme was an old one and has been used for centuries as evidenced by the lines of Bassanio in the casket scene:

"So may the outward shows be least themselves;
The world is still deceived by ornament," etc.

Had the same address been delivered by anyone other than a lecturer of the wonderful talent of Dr. Lanceley it would have been highly appreciated by all, but having heard him in other lectures expectations were raised too high and as a result the lecture suffered by comparison.

Tonight Dr. Lancely, by request, repeats his lecture "One Another," probably his very best, and those who have not heard him in other than the "Devil of Names" should not fail to be present tonight as the treat will be a rich one to them alike to those who have listened to him in this lecture before

Will Meet at Tiffin.

The Northwestern Ohio Teachers' association, of which Prof. Powell, of this city, is president, will meet at Tiffin, the Friday and Saturday after Thanksgiving.

Prof. Powell has made application to the railroad company for a special rate and to secure a through car so that no change between here and Tiffin will be necessary.

In case the Professor secures a through car and a special rate it is quite probable that a large number of teachers will attend from this city as they are making arrangements to go under the conditions mentioned.

Church Contracts Let.

At the office of Geo. D Copeland on Wednesday evening the building committee of the First Presbyterian church closed the contract for all the plastering and stucco work on the auditorium of the new church with the Columbus Rock Plaster company, of Columbus and at the same time entered into a contract with S. S. Fox & Co., of this city, to do the galvanized iron work on the interior of the dome.

The contracts for painting, frescoing and furnishing have not yet been let but it is quite probable that they will be in the very near future.

Early Morning Fire.

At an early hour this morning the house of Motorman Sifrit, on north State street, was discovered to be afire The blaze had caught in the roof near the chimney and was burning quite briskly when discovered.

Fortunately it was the time when the motormen had come to the barn to take out their cars and it was not long before three or four of them, by the use of buckets, had extinguished the blaze, the damage to the structure being but trifling.

Mr. and Mrs. Strelitz Entertain.

Mr. and Mrs. Mitchel Strelitz very delightfully entertained a party of about thirty friends Wednesday night. The evening was spent with cards Progressive pedro was the game and it proved to be a very pleasant means of entertainment.

After the cards had been finished refreshments were served on an elaborate scale, and the guests were highly elated over the enjoyment of the occasion.

FROM CALEDONIA.

A Budget of Items Prepared Especially for Star Readers.

Caledonia, O., Nov. 13.—Caledonia is improving in the way of business. During the past week there have come to town a new clothing store and new dray. The clothing store is run by Sam Oppenheimer, of Marion, and the dray by W. Vandorn.

Joe Seeds, of Willington state of Delaware, was in town Friday and Saturday last, visiting friends. He and C E Kelly and family drove across the country to Johnsville and spent the Sabbath with relatives. Mr. Seeds was formerly a resident of Morrow county, but left there for the state of Delaware 35 years ago, and this is his first visit to Ohio since leaving John Pommert and S. E Lesher were at Cincinnati Friday last on business.

The Edison Phonograph Concert company will give an entertainment at Ludwig's opera house Friday evening, November 15, 1895, for the benefit of the Caledonia Opera band.

T. J. Anderson and Lew Day left Tuesday noon on the train for Paulding county for a few days' hunt. W. H Husted, the night operator at the Erie tower, is also taking a vacation and left this morning on a west bound train for a few days' hunt.

Mrs. Abe Mason and Mrs. David Sickel both having had a delicate operation performed on them last week by Dr. J. E. Baker, assisted by Dr. Stone, are both improving nicely and will soon be out again.

On Sunday evening or early Monday morning the elevator was broken into and two sacks of flour stolen.

Joseph and J. A. Resler, of Illinois, brothers-in-law of Rev. Harrold, are here this week visiting with Mr. Harrold and family and looking for a location in this part of the country, both having sold their property in the West

The T. W. Roberts estate was appraised last week, which amounted to between $12,000 and $13,000, and application will now be made to sell a part at private sale.

Wm. Fields is managing the office at the railroads this week while T. J Anderson is taking a week's vacation

ERIE CHANGES

There Are Rumors of Many as a Result of the Recent Sale.

The Indianapolis News in a recent issue, said:

"The recent sale and reorganization of the Erie lines indicate that there will be a number of changes in the management of the road. The active management of the lines west of Buffalo and Salamanca, will be placed in charge of officials subordinate to the general officers at New York The office of general manager of the New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio division now held by A. M. Tucker, will be abolished The division from Chicago to Marion, O., will be operated as one, and the office of superintendent of the division between Huntington, Ind., and Marion, O., will be abolished. A number of other changes are contemplated."

In regard to the above the Huntington, Ind., Herald has the following:

"Officials of the C. and E. whose attention was called to the above paragraph, today, say that there is no truth in many of the statements above given, and that, under no circumstances, will the office of superintendent between Huntington and Marion be changed or abandoned—a fact which gives decided satisfaction to friends of local Erie officials in this city."

Death in Big Island.

Mrs Benjamin Scofield died at her home in Big Island township, this morning at 7 o'clock, at the age of 36 years

Deceased has been an invalid for the past five years. Four years ago she was obliged to undergo a surgical operation and never fully recovered. Recently she suffered an attack of typhoid fever, which was the direct cause of her death.

HOW TO GET STRENGTH.

BLOOD GIVES STRENGTH.

Kidneys Filter the Blood and Take Out Poisonous Matter Which Weakens the System—Blood and Kidney Troubles Related—How They May Be Got Rid Of.

Blood is the strength of the body.

It makes flesh and muscle. It gets nourishment from the stomach and bowels and distributes it where needed.

It drains away all the worn out matter.

Every movement we make, wears out some of our tissue or flesh. This worn-out matter is carried away by the blood.

The blood which contains it is poisonous, because the dead tissue is poisonous.

So it goes to the kidneys to be purified.

The kidneys are simply blood filters.

They filter out the bad matter from the blood and expel it from the body They leave the good matter in.

The purified blood goes on and builds up the body.

But there comes a time when the kidneys don't do their duty.

Water filters need cleaning now and then So do blood filters.

When your kidneys are overworked, they fall sick. When they are sick, can't filter your blood.

When your blood is not pure there is no knowing what disease you may suffer from.

Unfiltered blood makes sores, pimples, blotches, causes headache, dizziness, neuralgia, loss of ambition, tiredness in the bones and muscles, pains in the joints and muscles, pale, sickly complexion, depression of spirits and such well known diseases as rheumatism, gout, anaemia, chlorosis or green sickness, hysteria, etc.

To cure them, all you have to do is to filter your blood.

The kidneys will do it if you will cure them.

You can cure them with Dr. Hobb's Sparagus Kidney Pills.

Dr. Hobb's Sparagus Kidney Pills will also cure such kidney troubles as Bright's Disease, Diabetes, Nephritis, etc.

These kidney troubles are also caused by impure blood.

First the kidneys refuse to work, then the impure blood poisons the system, and with it the kidneys themselves.

Many people make the mistake of supposing the stomach can purify the blood.

It can't.

Only the kidneys can do it.

That is what they are there for.

So that ordinary "blood purifiers" are a mistake.

A kidney medicine is what should be taken

And then, only a kidney medicine that has the proper action on the kidneys, such as Dr. Hobb's Sparagus Kidney Pills.

Asparagus is the only plant which has just the right medicinal action on the kidneys, to cure them when overworked and tone them up, so that they commence again to purify the blood

Asparagus cures the sick kidneys and acts naturally as a gentle tonic and regulator.

It is the principal ingredient, made by a special process, in Dr. Hobb's Sparagus Kidney Pills.

Dr. Hobb's Sparagus Kidney Pills is the only remedy which contains this especially prepared asparagus

Dr. Hobb's Sparagus Kidney Pills will cure when other prescriptions and medicines will not even relieve.

They are for sale at all druggists for 50 cents per box, or will be sent prepaid to any address on receipt of price Valuable pamphlet "A Filter For Your Blood" mailed free on request Hobb's Medicine Co., Chicago or San Francisco.

RAILROAD NOTES.

The following is from the Columbus Dispatch: "A new system of deciding the amount of tonnage an engine can haul is now in operation on the C., H V. and T., being regulated by the state of the weather and the class of the engine. Master Mechanic Stuffey has provided cabinets with a neat glass front and inside is a board filled with small holes. These holes are divided into four classes namely, A, B, C and D Plugs bearing the number of the engines were made and they are placed in the holes in the division to which that engine belongs. Under class A the best engines are placed and they are graded on down in three other classes. The difference in the hauling capacity of each class is 100 tons. A table has been prepared showing the hauling capacity of the engines of each class, at a certain state of temperature. When the thermometer shows that the temperature is 40 degrees or warmer a class A engine shall be allowed to haul 1,700 tons, and with a helper 2,200 tons. Each two degrees the temperature falls the hauling capacity of that engine is decreased 100 tons and if the temperature is between 10 and 20 degrees below zero a class A engine shall only haul 1,000 tons or with a helper 1,400. The hauling capacity of each class is rated at 100 tons less than the next highest.

OUR BEER RECORD.

The Production Last Year Greater Than That of the Preceding.

On Nov. 1 of every year the organized brewers of the country get from the internal revenue bureau a statement in detail of the brewing business of the country, which yields $30,000,000 a year in government taxes. This year's figures are just at hand The total consumption of beer in the United States for the present fiscal year—figured up to July 1—was 33,568,661 barrels, an increase over the consumption of a year ago of 191,000 barrels This year's figures, while in excess of those of last year, are less than the total consumption of 1893, which was 32,822,872 barrels. A barrel of beer, in brewer's measure, is about 31½ gallons. The consumption of lager beer in the United States is therefore in excess of 1,000,000,000 gallons. These figures put the United States abreast with Germany, supposed by many to be the favored land of beer drinkers, but still Ireland Great Britain, which is at the head of all countries, with an annual consumption of 1,200,000,000 gallons.

The consumption of beer throughout the United States varies greatly. It is largest in New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois and Wisconsin, and least in the southern and prohibition states. In Kansas, a prohibition state, the sale of beer last year footed up less than 6,000 barrels, whereas, the total sales in the city of Milwaukee were 2,000,000 barrels.

There are in all 70,000 breweries in the world, of which nearly 30,000 are in Germany. Great Britain follows with 18,000, and then the United States with 5,000. It is one of the peculiarities of the beer business, not found in the mercantile business generally, that the production and the consumption of beer in each country are substantially the same. In other words, there is very little commerce in beer. Only one country brews more beer than it consumes. That is Germany. Only one country consumes more beer than it produces. That is France In the United States the figures of consumption and production are very nearly the same, and the small difference is due to the importation of German beer, which has been observed during the last five or six years. The production of American beer, of genuine and admitted domestic manufacture, has increased 50 per cent since 1888.

These figures are for the fiscal and not the calendar years, the business of brewers and distillers being regulated, in this respect, by the bookkeeping of the internal revenue bureau of the United States treasury department, which begins a fiscal year on July 1 and ends it on June 30.—New York Sun.

HENDERSON OF IOWA.

He Will Probably Be Head of the Appropriations Committee of the House.

Henderson of Iowa will probably be chairman of the appropriations committee. He was the ranking Republican on the committee in the last congress, and all things else being equal this would suggest his selection. But besides being the ranking Republican he is a very capable man and thoroughly familiar with the work of the committee. He is a good debater, discreet and popular and thoroughly familiar with fiscal affairs.

Mr. Cannon of Illinois, who also is a candidate for this chairmanship, was chairman of those committees during the Fifty-first congress and is thoroughly familiar with the intricacies of appropriations, but he has incurred the enmity of some members and this would, in all probability, put him last in the race for the chairmanship. Mr. Cannon is the ranking Republican on the committee on rules, and this would be his second choice, but he is said to be somewhat disinclined to accept the chairmanship of the committee on appropriations, preferring to remain at the head of the committee on rules. There being no known reason why General Henderson should not be selected and his personal relations with the Republicans in the house being exceedingly friendly, the assumption is that he will get the appointment.

In this view of the case the assignments make it probable that Dowell will be chairman of the ways and means committee.—Washington Star.

Practical Questions.

Rugby boys are expected to read the newspapers. Here is a recent examination paper in the fifth form at Rugby school:

Current Events, 3rd Quarter, 1895.

1. Describe the east and west coast routes to Scotland. Give an account of the "Race For the North."

2. Where are the following places, and with what recent events are they connected: Fashoda, Metemmeh, Dongola, Khartoum, Omdurman, Nasrullah Khan, Sher Afzul.

3. Explain the colonial, privy council, spiritual courts.

4. What was the last session of parliament? Who are at present the speaker, lord chancellor, foreign secretary? What offices are held by Mr. Goschen, Lord Lansdowne, Mr. Long?

5. An account of the recent Armenian war.

6. What are the present difficulties in Armenia? Describe the situation.

At the Turning of the Tide.

The present condition of the foreign trade should bring gold into the country Along to the present time the country has exported this year about $45,000,000 more gold than it has imported. This is a large loss, but it has often been exceeded. In the same time in 1894 the loss was $86,000,000, in 1893 it was $52,000,000 and in 1891 $71,000,000. The grain and cotton exports, now nearly heavy, at this season in most years start a flow of gold to the country, and it is reasonable to look for a movement of this sort soon.—St. Louis Globe Democrat.

The North Atlantic Squadron

The North Atlantic squadron, Rear Admiral Bunce, is to be kept at Key West, near the vicinity of the West Indies Reports on the vessels will begin at once at the New York navy yard. The work will require about a month, and as soon as it is finished the ships will start south. The squadron at present consists of the New York, Columbia, Minneapolis and Marblehead. The vessels are to visit Maine and Texas.

HER PERILOUS ACT.

MRS. LESLIE CARTER'S DARING DEED IN A NEW PLAY.

No Sham About This Realism—Swings High In Air From a Bell Clapper—Led Hysterical to Her Dressing Room After Every Performance.

In the latest dramatic success of the season, "The Heart of Maryland," at the Herald Square theater, New York, the leading female role not only calls for great histrionic ability, but the exercise of an amount of physical strength and gymnastic skill that would tax the endurance of even a trained athlete. To Mrs. Leslie Carter, who plays Maryland Calvert, belongs the unusual distinction of being generally acclaimed a finished actress in this the third role she has assumed during her stage career.

The most dramatic scene in "The Heart of Maryland" occurs in the third act and is based on the familiar poem of "Curfew Must Not Ring Tonight." The hero has escaped from an old church, where he was held a captive by the Confederates, and the provost sergeant gives orders to toll the church bells to notify the pickets of the escape

The heroine rushes up the winding stairs of the belfry, and just as the great bell has tolled once she grasps its brazen hammer and swings out over the church below. The bell swings furiously as the ringers pull the rope, but emits no sound as the tender hands of the brave woman muffle the clapper It is an extremely effective scene and never fails to arouse the audience to enthusiasm.

There have been many conjectures as to how it was worked, and the belief is general that Mrs. Carter is fastened to the bell by invisible wires and belts, and is therefore practically in no danger in this trying scene. This idea is entirely erroneous, as a reporter found on investigation.

MRS LESLIE CARTER.

He ascended the 32 winding stairs of the mimic belfry the other afternoon and found himself on a narrow platform, 35 feet above the stage. It seemed none too secure and was hardly the place any one would choose from preference for exercise. The sides were open, and a single misstep would send a luckless being tumbling below

Above hung the great bell of papier mache, with a wooden bar projecting eight inches on either side of the tongue There were no wires, no belts, no clasps for the wrists, and no artificial supports of any kind. The reporter took hold of the clapper and hung suspended for a moment Then, concluding that swinging at that height would not be pleasant, he released his hold and descended the belfry stairs.

By invitation of Manager Max Bleiman the reporter watched Mrs Carter still the toll of the bell from the stage on a recent night. The powerful scene between the heroine and the drunken colonel was in progress, culminating in the escape of the prisoner. Then rang out the hoarse tones of Odell Williams as the provost sergeant:

"Ring the bell!"

Mrs. Carter seized a lantern and sped for the belfry stairs Then the stage was sudden ly darkened while the stage hands shifted the scene to the tall belfry tower. In the darkness a panting female figure ran swiftly by the reporter and crouched at the foot of the belfry stairs. The change was completed, and the rays of the calcium fell upon the bell tower as Mrs. Carter began the rapid ascent. Climbing swiftly, now in full view of the audience, she reached the first landing and tossed her lantern to the ground. Upward she toiled, reaching the top breathless, but triumphant.

Up shot the powerful, shapely white arms, and the muscular white hands took firm hold of the crossbar on the tongue just as the bell clanged. Then four muscular men on the stage tugged at a rope and the great bell rolled and rolled, as the breathless woman clung by main strength to the small bar. Far out over the tower and back again, and out over the other side she was swung, while the audience sat breathless. To loosen her hold for the fraction of a second meant instant death or maiming for life for the adventurous woman. The swinging continued as the curtain descended in a storm of applause.

Then the bell ceased to swing. Mrs Carter loosened her hold and dropped, trembling, to the landing, and then made her way quickly down the narrow stairs. When she reached the stage, the actress was hysterical from the nervous strain and the fatigue. Her breath came in quick gasps, and she was unable to talk and hardly able to walk.

Half dazed, she was taken before the curtain twice by Maurice Barrymore. Then, sobbing hysterically, Mrs. Carter fell into her mother's arms and was led, trembling, to her dressing room. It was ten minutes before she recovered her equanimity.

How many leading actresses would care to go through a strain like this seven times a week?—New York World.

HOUSE FURNISHING.

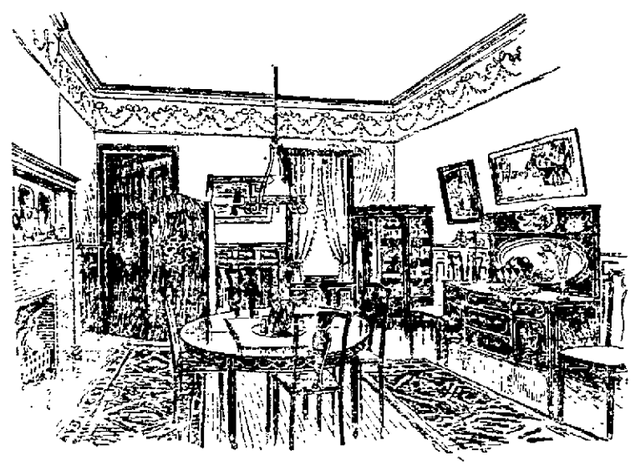
THE DINING ROOM IN A SMALL APARTMENT.

How It May Be Supplied With Tasteful and Serviceable Fitments at Comparatively Little Expense—Color Effects In the Woodwork and Paper Hangings.

As the revival of taste in furniture has at last reached the large manufacturers and dealers it has become possible to advise persons of average means how to furnish a small apartment in a tasteful and yet inexpensive manner. It is true that much of what is to be found readily made is still of a sort to be avoided. The manufacturers, who are not to be blamed, as they are evidently only responding to a popular demand, put on the market quantities of work in which the rich and elaborate French styles of Louis XV and XVI are badly imitated in poor material and without that delicacy of workmanship which charms one in authentic specimens. Nothing is to be gained by buying cheap imitations of styles which from their nature require rich and costly work. And even the real thing designed for palaces would be out of place in an unpretentious, modern flat. But it is now as easy to obtain such simple and tasteful furniture as that readily illustrated by The Art Amateur, which is appropriate to our present ways of living, well made, inexpensive and serviceable.

The dining room, the subject of the illustration alluded to, receives the first attention. It is the important room in a flat and is of the ordinary size, which allows no room for the massive furniture sometimes affected by admirers of the modern cheap Gothic and the still more wretched copies of early renaissance furniture. A clumsy sideboard, of which the bulky frame and projecting carvings, too commonly false and glued on, occupy frequently as much space as is available for its proper purpose, is entirely out of place in such a room. But the furniture here shown, while elegant in form, takes up as little space as possible.

As to the color scheme of such a dining room, it should depend upon the furniture. That illustrated is of mahogany inlaid with box or other light yellow wood in simple lines and patterns. Furniture of as good shapes may be obtained without the inlay, which, however, does not add so much to the cost as should deter the householder. It is desirable that the woodwork, particularly in a small room, should correspond in color with the furniture, as in this way a restful and harmonious general effect is obtained at the outset. The wainscoting should therefore be stained a mahogany color.



DINING ROOM FURNISHED AT SMALL EXPENSE.

The hard wood floor is partly covered with large rugs of Turkish design, though not of Turkish make, the best rugs of cheap grades being at present manufactured in Japan.

The mantel, faced with glazed brick, joins in the harmony of reds, which may find an effective contrast in the treatment of the walls. For these we would recommend a paper of simple design in a pattern neither large nor strikingly colored. The general tone should be of a dull bluish green or olive. With this paper the ornamental screen which shuts off the draft from the door should correspond. It may best be made of greenish denim, on which the design in relief may be applied on board of the same color or of dull gold.

The picture frames may be gilt or it may be desirable to fall in with an old fashion lately revived, and have them of mahogany. The general low tone here suggested throws out as spots of brilliant light the napery, the cut glass, the flowers and other ornaments of the table, and goes far to produce that sensation of comfort which one should experience the moment he sets foot within a well appointed dining room.

A Hint to Housekeepers.

An authority on the chemistry of foods cautions housewives against cooling a loaf of bread too rapidly after taking it from the oven. "Much of the sourness of bread," says Dr. Woods, "is directly due to lack of care during cooling. Owing to the high water contents and the large amount of nitrogenous substances and sugar which bread contains it is especially, while warm, a good soil for the development of various kinds of molds and bacteria. A loaf of bread," he says, "just from the oven, taken into a properly ventilated room filled with people, will become sour in the course of twenty-four hours."

Creamed Oysters.

Put in the chafing dish 2 tablespoonfuls of butter, half a pint of milk or cream, one teaspoonful of salt and a little pepper and a sprinkle of mace. When it boils add half a cupful of cracker dust and add a pint of oysters. Serve as soon as the oysters look plump.

POINTS IN MUSIC TEACHING.

Axioms That Apply to Teachers In All Departments of Music.

The following points set forth for the guidance of music teachers may not be new, but they are worthy of careful consideration:

The key to success in music teaching is to do instead of to theorize; written or oral explanations have their uses, but practical demonstration is better. Having a general idea of a piece of music, play it to the pupil—your performance is worth all the explanations that were ever spoken or written.

Translate your verbal theory into practice; show how a scherzo differs from an adagio, how an emotion of joy differs from an emotion of pain. To bestow correct expression, not merely the pianos and fortes, rallentandos and accelerandos, but phrasing, rhythmical feeling and accentuation have to be noticed, and need all the care of both executant and teacher. The art of accompanying soloists is very difficult, and many otherwise fine musicians of talent and good standing come to grief through it. Good practice in accompanying is secured by the teacher playing a solo in different styles; the accompanists will then be prepared to fall in with any conception felt by the soloist, should they be called upon to accompany a stranger.

Before placing a piece of music before a band the teacher should study it thoroughly, make a mental (or better still a pencil) note of points where the pupils are likely to come to grief, and so be prepared to show them how to get over their difficulties.

No two pupils can be treated absolutely alike, either in a purely technical or musical sense. The teacher has to think out the artistic path for each pupil and lead him or show him the way through it. This requires thought and the expenditure of nervous and physical energy. Teaching is nerve wearing. A vast amount of vital energy is constantly being expended, not only during teaching hours, but in the hours of private study and thought, which must daily be done.

For the Little Folk.

New York children are now dressed in a delightfully quaint manner. According to The Herald, cloaks and hats and bonnets are made to match, often of the same materials, and both light and medium colors are fashionable. Dark shades are for the time being decidedly "out." Both bonnets and hats are very large, shirred and flared brims projecting far over the little face, and tied beneath the chin, with a double bowknot of ribbon. The long cloaks and coats are the most popular for little children, and they are made up in elaborate styles, with capes and collars edged with fur or lace. Ribbed silks, bengalines, poplins and smooth cloths are all used, and the shades of color are so delicate it seems as though they must soon lose their dainty freshness. The materials are never heavy, the desired warmth being given by the quilted linings, which are both warm and light. A lace ruche should be put under the hat brim to make it becoming. These ruches are to be bought ready made at almost all the shops.

Fashions In Jewelry.

Gold and pearl jewelry is exceedingly popular.

Gold and silver sleeve links, with colored enameled centers, are quite new.

As to brooches, fashion favors the so called "round pins," of which there is an immense assortment.—Jewelers' Circular.

Finger rings are legion, and are worn on both hands in unrestricted numbers.

In gem jewelry a very desirable tone of green is constituted by tiny diavines.

Diamonds, now as always the most popular of gems, are advancing in price.

DRESS AND FASHION.

THE VERY LATEST STYLES IN BONNETS AND GOWNS.

An Artistic Variety of Designs and Combinations—Colors and Materials—Bright Colors Popular—Pleasing Millinery—Velvet Gowns—Tailor Made Dresses.

Well dressed women make it appear that more than one century has lent a charm to the fashions. Old styles revived have been improved by modern taste and ingenuity. The result is an artistic variety of designs and combinations, of colors and materials, which afford an excellent opportunity for the exercise of individual taste. Happy, therefore, is the woman of today, for, whether she be fair or dark, tall or short, it is within the possibilities that she be both becomingly and fashionably attired.

Some of the newest gowns show waist and skirt of one material, but relieved by any amount of color in the decoration, which is chiefly confined to the bodice. Black and white gowns remain fashionable, and a very stylish combination is that of blue and green. The tendency is to bright colors, as is evinced in the black satins embroidered in flower designs, in natural colors, and brocades with gorgeous flowerings. Black goods are, however, shown in great variety, and worn by well dressed women.

The new hats must really be seen to be appreciated. No two are alike, and each one is more attractive than its neighbor. An imported model seen was of dark green felt, trimmed with masses of cock's feathers in the front and at the sides, and a cluster of pink roses at the back. Another hat worth describing is of black velvet, with masses of black feathers whose funereal suggestiveness is merely relieved by a monster rhinestone buckle. A Parisian model liked by some women is made in black silk drawn and gathered upon wires, in the same fashion as they used to make babies' bonnets in the good old days, and this is lined underneath with drawn satin, in pale blue, trimmed again with the inevitable ostrich feathers.

The new dresses awaiting inspection are some of them made of darkly hued plaid stuffs, others are of plain rough cheviots, and others again exploit the incomparable charms of face cloth. If you buy face cloth of a really fine quality you cannot do wrong. It hangs with distinction, you can get it in whatever color may best suit your complexion, and it lends itself happily to almost any method of making up. Novelty fabrics in brilliant coloring may be used to make the blouse, which is out in new guise, or to form the underbodice with a bib shaped cloth piece slit up, which is one of the most popular ways of making the bodice just now.

Fur trimmings are in great demand, and sable, chinchilla and Persian lamb are equally fashionable. There are some daring combinations in which fur, lace, chiffon and flowers appear in the decoration of one garment. A chic example of fur trimming is afforded in a becoming and stylish pelisse made of green cloth. The coat is edged with Persian lamb, the sleeves are of striped velvet and the buttons of silver.

Black velvet dresses merit consideration, for they lend themselves to the picturesque and to the Louis XVI style, which is now with us. A popular style is presented in a costume which is entirely made of velvet and in the form of a pelisse, with a plain petticoat in front. Additional elegance is imparted to this costume by a trimming of sable tails and jet and gold passementerie. Another attractive walking costume is made with the cape in front, embroidered in light colored silks and edged with ostrich feather trimming. Four fanciful buttons adorn the cape, and the dress itself is of fanciful cloth, while the bodice is becomingly draped under the arms on to the bust.

For ordinary wear the tailor made cloth gown in its new aspect cannot be improved upon. It appears this season with innumerable strappings and infinitesimal buttons, narrow edgings of fur, and last though certainly not least to the list of its attractions is its light cloth or white satin waistcoat and cravat. And now a word about the new cravat: it passes round the neck to the front, and is a revival of the old stock worn by our great grandfathers.

ATTRACTIVE NOVELTIES.

Useful Conceits In Fancy Work Which Cannot Fail to Please.

A very useful and attractive little piece of fancy work, which no housekeeper can afford to do without, is called "A Friend In Need," and is made of fine yet firm brown linen. In length it is 20 inches and in depth 5½ inches. There are eight pockets, with a pointed flap on each, which is held in place by a button and buttonhole. The words buttons, elastic, thread, cotton, needles, pins, tape and silk are embroidered on the different pockets in blue Asiatic filo floss. The pockets are stitched to hold them in place, and the whole thing is neatly bound in blue ribbon. This little novelty opens like a screen or photograph case, and on the outside are embroidered the words, "A Friend In Need." A piece of ribbon (No. 5 or 7 will answer) is tied around the middle of this little case and finished with a bowknot.

An effective tablespread is of ecru linen, embroidered in golden brown Roman floss. Another, equally handsome, has oak leaves and acorns embroidered in Asiatic tinseled embroidery silk, while the edge is finished with a heavy netted fringe of brown Victoria knitting silk.

A pretty sofa pillow has a cover of some honeycomb fabric embroidered in golden brown Boston art silk. A full puff of brown satin makes a pretty finish for the edge.

A unique ottoman intended for a library furnished in brown and yellow has a cover of brown silk terry embroidered in yellow Asiatic filo floss. The following quotation appears thereon:

> Close the curtains, stir the fire,
> Draw your chair a little nigher,
> Cut your slippers, but if you'd be
> In perfect comfort, then get me.

A pretty and useful basket is about 11 inches in length and 6 in width. It is flat and opens like a book. On the top is painted a most graceful spray of California poppies, one of the handsomest flowers that ever grew. This odd shaped basket is lined with silk to match the rich, golden blossoms which ornament the cover, and a ribbon bow fastens it together. This makes an admirable receptacle for cabinet photographs or unframed drawings. The basket is very finely woven of a pale shade of greenish corn. All sorts of pretty handkerchief and glove boxes are handsome decorated in a similar manner, says Good Housekeeping, authority for the foregoing.

A Unique Picture Frame.

A suggestion of autumn is conveyed by a rustic frame recently depicted in The Delineator, and it may be added that the frame admirably suits the marine engraving within it. It is made of split pine limbs neatly trimmed and mitered at the corners, and over it are scrolled pine twigs ornamented, as pictured, with pine cones and needles. The frame is touched with varnish, which gives it gloss and keeps it intact. A white mat incloses the picture, but its adoption is a matter of choice.

Tailor Made Gowns.

The comfort and utility of the tailor made gowns has made them a part of any well regulated wardrobe. The skirts are full and plain, and jacket made with short, full shirt effect and strapped seams, are shown in all the swell establishments. The skirts are apparently guiltless of haircloth, but have a narrow, stiff facing all around the hem and in the back breadths. They are just as much gored as ever and flare in much the same way as did the summer gowns. The fit over the hips must need be perfection, and the full narrow effect at the back of the waist is becoming to almost any and every figure. Some dressmakers, and tailors as well, are turning out trimmed skirts, but the severely plain are the most popular as yet.

Cottage Pudding In Gem Pans.

Bake cottage pudding in gem or popover pans, thus giving to each person an individual pudding. This way not only adds to the attractiveness of this simple but popular dish, but conserves its lightness, if, as often happens, a careful hostess attempts to cut the pudding with a steel knife when hot from the oven. The usual sauce accompanies the individual serving.

Old Time Pudding Recipe.

Into one pint of purest drink
Let one teacup of clean rice sink
And boil till all the water's gone—
No matter where. Stir with a spoon
And deftly add of milk one quart.
Boil till it thickens as it ought.
Stirring it with the aforesaid spoon
Till it is smooth and white and done.
Then add three egg yolks beaten light,
One lemon rind all grated right,
And of white sugar well refined
Eight poems by stirring three combined.
Now pour the mixture in a dish
Of any size that you may wish
And let it stand, while with a fork
You beat the whites as light as cork—
The whites of the three eggs I mean—
And when they're beaten stiff and clean
Add eight spoonfuls of sugar light
And put the frothing, nice and white,
Upon your pudding like a cover.
Be sure you spread it speedy over.
Then let it brown.

Absentminded.

There have been a great many stories about absentminded men, where one forgets his house address, another what business he is in, and where another has to refer to the mark on his handkerchief before he can remember his own name, etc. There is a lawyer in Fort Atkinson, Wis., of the name of Rogers, who possessed a Jersey cow, which he used to drive morning and evening to and from the pasture, a few blocks distant from his home. One morning as one of his neighbors was passing along the street he met Mr. Rogers walking in the middle of the road, his mind apparently engrossed with some weighty question. The neighbor called out:

"Good morning, Mr. Rogers! Where are you going?"

"Why," said Mr. Rogers in a surprised way, "I'm driving the cow to pasture." And he waved his hand toward where the cow ought to have been.

"Well, where is the cow?" asked the friend.

"I guess I forgot to let her out of the barn," answered Mr. Rogers humbly as he realized his position. And he had.—Chicago Post.

How To Prevent Croup.

Some reading that will prove interesting to young mothers. How to guard against the disease.

Croup is a terror to young mothers and to post them concerning the cause, first symptoms and treatment is the object of this item. The origin of croup is a common cold. Children who are subject to it take cold very easily and croup is almost sure to follow. The first symptom is hoarseness; this is soon followed by a peculiar rough cough, which is easily recognized and will never be forgotten by one who has heard it. The time to act is when the child first becomes hoarse. If Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is freely given all tendency to croup will soon disappear. Even after the croupy cough has developed it will prevent the attack. There is no danger in giving this remedy for it contains nothing injurious. For sale by L. H. Flocken, druggist.

A Celtic Argument.

Two Irishmen were once discussing the respective merits of the sun and moon.

"Save," said Patrick, "the sun gives a stronger light than the moon."

"True," answered Brian, "but the moon's the more sinsible."

"How do you prove that?" says Pat.

"Aisy," responds Brian, "for the moon shines in the night, when we nade it, and the sun comes out in the broad daylight, when a one eyed man can see without it."—Household Words.

A Queer Mania.

A short time ago a lady in Paris became violently insane on the street and was sent to an asylum. Her apartments in the Rue Rambuteau—fine ones, for which she paid an annual rent of 2,000 francs—were then visited. An intolerable stench pervaded them. The demented woman had completely "tinned" them with empty sardine boxes, which emitted the peculiar perfume. There were four cartfuls of these odorous boxes.

LOOK OUT FOR BREAKERS AHEAD

when pimples, eruptions, boils, and like manifestations of impure blood appear. They wouldn't appear if your blood were pure and your system in the right condition. They show you what you need—a good blood-purifier; that's what you get when you take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

It carries health with it. All Blood, Skin and Scalp Diseases, from a common Blotch, or Eruption, to the worst Scrofula, are cured by it. It invigorates the liver and rouses every organ into healthful action. In the most stubborn forms of Skin Diseases, such as Salt-rheum, Eczema, Tetter, Erysipelas, Boils and kindred ailments, and with Scrofula, in every shape, and all blood taints, no matter from what cause arising, it is an unequaled remedy.

SCROFULOUS ABSCESSES.

MRS. SWEENEY.

MRS. BELLE SWEENEY, of Flat Top, Mercer Co., W. Va., writes: "About four years ago I took scrofula, and did everything that doctors and others prescribed, but only got worse. Several abscesses formed about my neck and breast, discharging a quantity of matter. I got so weak I could scarcely walk about the house. I read all the medical works I could get hold of, and, among the rest, read some of your works. You described my case, and recommended Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery with his 'Pleasant Pellets.' So I procured some and commenced using them and soon began to mend. In six months my sores were all healed up. I am forty-five years old and believe I am as stout as I ever was in my life. I used about one dozen bottles of the 'Golden Medical Discovery' with the 'Pellets,' and used nothing else after I began using your medicines."

Eulalia's Pipe.

Perhaps the souvenir which Mr. Hobart C. Chatfield-Taylor values more highly than any other in his large and interesting collection is the pipe which the Infanta Eulalia smoked during her visit to Chicago in 1893. This pipe is of French briar wood and was made in Paris. Its stem is 7 inches long, including the amber tip, and the bowl is correspondingly large. In the privacy of her apartments, and while yachting upon our lake, the princess had this pipe almost constantly between her pearly teeth during her stay in Chicago. She had been accustomed to smoking Cuban tobacco, but in Chicago she became acquainted with the superlative charms of cut plug, and it is understood that she has used none other since.

Mr. Chatfield-Taylor keeps his precious souvenir in a glass case, upon a small velvet cushion. Under it hangs the framed letter which the Spanish princess sent him, asking his acceptance of the pipe in memory of many happy hours spent together, but it is not clear whether these happy hours involve the pipe or Mr. Chatfield-Taylor.—Chicago Record.

His First Words.

A local athlete, on entering a Turkish bath the other night, found a stranger struggling in the swimming pool. The man was evidently unable to swim, and had jumped in without ascertaining whether the water would be above his head. There was no attendant about to warn or rescue him.

The athlete swam to the assistance of the struggling man. Grasping him by the hair, he towed him to the side of the tank and assisted him to hang on until he recovered his breath. What were the first words uttered by the rescued one? Did he stammer out thanks to heaven or his human preserver? No. No, the human mind is a curious affair. As the half drowned man struggled back to consciousness, memories of an old jest seemed to flit through his brain, for he said:

"Gee whiz! It was a lucky thing for me I wasn't baldheaded!"—Buffalo Express.

Paraguay Tea.

Mate or Paraguay tea is made from the leaves of the Peruvian holly and takes the place of tea in nearly the whole of South America, where it has been employed by Indians from time immemorial and by their conquerors and settlers since the seventeenth century. The tree, if left alone, will acquire a height of 15 or 20 feet, but the plants from which the mate is collected are moderate sized shrubs, with numerous stems from one root.

The Last Straw.

Henry Van Meter, who died in Bangor about 25 years ago at the advanced age of 110, was a genuine old Virginia darky who drifted down east in some mysterious way in the early part of this century.

He imagined himself charged with inspiration from various spirits and was in reality unbalanced in his mind for the greater part of the time, on account of the superstitious beliefs which possessed him.

At one time he was summoned to court as witness in a certain case, and the counsel on each side badgered him with questions until his wits became so entangled that his answers grew quite wild and preposterous. Noticing the distress and confusion of the poor old witness, the judge, who was a most kind hearted man, hushed the lawyers and put a simple question to the bewildered darky, with the intention of bringing him back to the starting point.

This third assault, for so Van Meter regarded the kindly judge's interposition, proved the last straw to the old darky.

"Now, look a-heah, yo'ole gray haired gemman up on de bench dar," he broke out, shaking a trembling forefinger at the judge, "don' yo' interfere wid dis yer bus'ness at all. Dis chile's got jess as much as he can do to take care ob dese two fellers down heah, an dat's de truf!"—Youth's Companion.

Stop, Thief!

It falls to the lot of few men to be arrested for stealing their own property. This happened a few days ago on the Duke street division. The proprietor of a boot shop was informed that a man had snatched a pair of shoes from the doorway and was making off up the street. Being a bit fleet of foot, the shopkeeper bounded after the runaway. Finding there was every chance of being captured, the thief dropped the shoes and bolted down a side street. The owner picked them up and continued the chase. The crowd called out, "Stop, thief!" and a policeman appearing on the scene instantly caught hold of the man with the shoes in his possession. It was useless declaring that he was the owner. The policeman had heard that before, and nothing less than marching his captive back to the shop, to be given into custody, would suffice. The intelligent officer looked slightly disconcerted on finding that he had caught the proprietor of the establishment and let the thief go.—Birmingham (England) Mail.

Father Ducey.

There are few clergymen or priests in this city who have the wide acquaintance and influence of Father Ducey of St. Leo's Roman Catholic church. Father Ducey's influence is by no means limited to persons of his own faith. A friend recently told me a story illustrating the priest's methods. According to my friend, Father Ducey entered Delmonico's cafe one night not long ago and walking up to a party of wealthy gentlemen seated at one of the tables said: "I have just come from a visit to a family, one member of which is at the point of death. The family is destitute. I want $100 from you gentlemen." In a moment each member of the party had handed the priest a bank note, and he walked out with the $100, which he took, although it was almost midnight, directly to the afflicted family. Not one of the men who contributed the money was a Catholic.—New York World.

On meeting Mr. Wells the next day he was told that she was all right, the pain had left her within two hours, and that the bottle of Pain Balm was worth $5 if it could not be had for less. Turkish affairs are getting mighty interesting.

It is rumored that Governor Bushnell will not remove his family to Columbus.

Maybe if the "Unspeakable Turk" would talk he would have less time to look after his business of committing atrocities.

Upon his retirement from office Governor McKinley will resume the practice of law at Canton until such time as he is elected president.

A number of Ohio newspapers are grieved over the rumor that Librarian Joe Smith will resign. They wanted to see Joey thrown out bodily.

Massachusetts people have adopted radical resolutions on the subject of lynching and burning offenders against the law. The recent affair at Tyler, Texas, seems to have disgusted everybody but Texans.

The contest for the speakership of the Ohio house of representatives promises to be quite lively. Speaker Boxwell will again be a candidate. Martin Dodge, of Cleveland, and D. L. Sleeper, of Athens, will also hustle for the honor.

It is now claimed by a man who looked the matter up that Dukes of Marlborough are descended from a chambermaid. If this is true it is evident that the American public has been too hasty in criticising the present duke. There may be something in him after all.

Governor Altgeld refused to ride in the parade at Atlanta, Tuesday, if the regular army troops were allowed to appear, and the troops were left out to accommodate him. Altgeld seems bound to avoid doing anything that would injure his reputation as a thorough crank.

Close political friends of Governor McKinley have proposed to allow him to name the Ohio delegation to the republican national convention in 1896. The Governor having already received the endorsement of the republican state convention, it is argued that to allow him to select his own delegates will simply be furthering the cause to which Republicans are already committed.

Dr. Lanceley Tonight

Last September Dr. Lanceley delivered a lecture entitled "One Another," before the conference and visitors. It was the second of a series of three and Epworth church was crowded to the doors, the first lecture on "The Nose" making so great an impression that none were willing to miss the second, and everybody brought their families and friends.

That lecture will be given tonight by the eminent orator, by the special request of many who heard it in September. If you desire to know a good many things you don't know, go up to the Epworth church tonight and Dr. Lanceley will give you plenty of pointers for one admission. If you do not believe it just ask someone who heard him talk about "One Another" in September.

Lecture begins at 8 o'clock tonight.

Met Former Comrades.

[Bucyrus Telegraph.]

R. J. Monroe, of Marion, was in the city today with the Strobel washing machine, of which Hurr & Coulter have taken the agency. Mr Monroe is an old Co. C. 8th Ohio comrade, and was one of the first volunteers from Crawford county. During his short stay in the city he made some very pleasant calls on old comrades.

Our Next Sheriff.

[Mt. Gilead Sentinel.]

Over in Marion where democracy has heretofore been impregnably enthroned, our friend, Joel T. Shaw was elected sheriff by a majority of 125. He is an able, clever fellow and his second election will be by an increased vote, so well will he serve the people in his official capacity.

LAKE ERIE TRAGEDY

IN WHICH TWO MEN ARE KILLED AND OTHERS WOUNDED

An Insane Norwegian Sailor Shoots Members of the Crew of the Schooner "Aunt Ruth"—The Crazy Man Is Killed by the Captain's Son.

[Special to the DAILY STAR.]

SANDUSKY, O., Nov. 14.—Much excitement prevails here as the result of a tragedy which occurred on Lake Erie this morning. While the schooner "Aunt Ruth" was four miles off Marblehead, a Norwegian sailor who was aboard the boat became violently insane, and before he could be controlled had shot and wounded every member of the boat's crew.

The captain's son, who witnessed the tragic performance, but himself escaped injury, turned on the mad man and shot him down, after which he got in a boat and rowed ashore, where he notified the life saving crew, who proceeded to the rescue of the wounded sailors.

The injured were brought ashore, and an effort is being made to save their lives, but two of them are known to be fatally wounded and can not live long.

MOSE REEVES

Received a Shaking Up on the Street Wednesday Night.

Mose Reeves, of Hotel Marion, had an experience Wednesday evening which he will not forget for some time to come.

Mr. Reeves, a little after dusk, was driving toward the city on east Center street and when he had just passed an electric light near the Mouser place he ran into a horse and buggy going in the opposite direction, or they ran into each other.

Mr. Reeves' buggy was upset and that scared his horse and it started to run. Mr. Reeves was dragged quite a distance but he pluckily kept hold of the lines and while being dragged kept sawing away at the horse, but seeing that the animal couldn't be stopped that way he put all his weight on one line and turned the horse into a fence along the road.

The man with whom he had the collision and several others came to Mr. Reeves' assistance and the horse was secured and then an examination was made to see what damage had been done. Mr. Reeves had sustained a bad cut across the right knee and was bruised and badly shaken up and the buggy also gave evidence of rough handling.

The accident resulted from the inability of either driver to see the other owing to the glare of the electric light.

WHY WOMEN SUICIDE

SELF DESTRUCTION ON THE INCREASE IN COLLEGES FOR GIRLS.

A Woman's College Suicide Club—Death by Leaping From a Railroad Bridge. the Severe Strain Too Hard on Them. An Interesting Subject.

The recent suicide of the young Brooklyn girl who failed of promotion at the New York Art league brings to mind the fact that self destruction is far more common among young women than most persons suspect. If permitted the women's colleges could furnish much data on the subject. That they are not permitted to do so is very natural. The college authorities, as well as those more intimately concerned, are naturally anxious to keep such occurrences just as quiet as possible.

There is a certain woman's college where the number of suicides during the past ten years has been surprising. The causes for the suicides are various. Generally there is some hereditary taint that overwork and high pressure develop to a fatal degree. Again, the overwork and high pressure are in themselves sufficient to unbalance a mind. Sheer homesickness has been known to disturb the mental balance. Woman's college life affords many opportunities for becoming morbid or "blue," as the students term it, and this is always a fruitful cause for suicide.

The last case of suicide at the institution referred to was directly traced to hereditary taint, an aunt of the girl having been for many years an inmate of a lunatic asylum. This, however, didn't lessen the horror of the occurrence, which in every detail was shocking. Another case at the same college had its rise wholly in overwork. Not satisfied with these and other like cases, this college also boasts a suicide story that is vouched for as true, but is rarely credited by a student after her freshman year.

It tells how, long ago in the institution's early days, three students formed a suicide club. Whether Mr. Stevenson's taking narrative incited them to the thing is not known, but the special means to the desired end determined upon was a jump from a neighboring high railroad bridge. One girl was to take the initiatory leap; the others were to follow suit ultimately, turns being decided by lot. In due time the college was shocked by the death of the first girl in the manner prescribed. A few days later the second girl made the fatal leap, and then the third. So goes the story. It is a much prized tradition of the college, and many a homesick little freshman has lain awake at night shivering at the mere thought of it all. It is said that any one passing the railroad bridge at night may hear the shrieks that the girls are supposed to have uttered as they leaped.

A certain normal college is responsible for a large number of suicides. It also has the honor of having sent many young women to the lunatic asylums. Temporary aberration is as common a complaint at this institution as measles and whooping cough are elsewhere. Girls become unbalanced by the severe strain put upon them and are found wandering about the country in a sadly unsettled condition. Of course all such testimony need not discourage faith in the value of higher education for women. It does, however, declare in favor of both institutions and individuals calling a halt as regards many of the present ways and means of mental discipline.

Statistics are not at hand to show that there are more cases of suicide at women's colleges than at men's, but it may be taken for granted that such is the case. As a class women are more morbid than men. If they are at all tinged with melancholy, it is of a permeating sort that affects them vitally and deeply. Men may be made blue easily, but it is generally just for the time being, and they recover as easily. But women take everything more seriously than men—from Easter bonnets to their own lives.—New York Evening Sun.

The Doctor no Longer Necessary—Sick People Provided with Remedies To Cure Themselves—A Triumph for the People.

An Honest Woman's Gratitude.

Mrs. Ella Homshur, 773 Howard street, Philadelphia, says: "My entire nervous system was broken down with catarrh. I was partially deaf, and had all the disgusting symptoms of that loathsome disease. It affected my stomach, and I suffered terribly from dyspepsia. When I applied to Doctor Munyon for treatment I was completely prostrated. Under the skillful treatment I received I speedily grew better, and am now without a trace of my former troubles. I am glad to indorse Munyon's Remedies, for I feel that I owe my life to their use."

Professor Munyon provides a separate remedy for nearly every disease. Common sense and experience show this to be the true method. Thousands of people have cured themselves by the use of a 25 cent bottle of Munyon's Improved Homeopathic Remedies, which may be obtained from any druggist. AN OVERCOAT THIEF

SENT WHERE HE WON'T NEED SUCH A GARMENT FOR THIRTY DAYS.

Acting Mayor McKinley Gets in His Work. John Moore's Address Will Be Cleveland, O., for a Time—Other Police Court Business.

'Squire McKinley, as acting mayor, does not want any thieves about the city. He made that assertion this morning, and to make his word good sent John Moore to the workhouse for thirty days and gave him a fine of five dollars and costs.

John says that he resides near Caledonia and coming to the city Wednesday had a few drinks and dropped into Fies & Ballentine's, where he noticed a coat belonging to Burt Nichols, the porter at the place. He stole the coat and walked away with it. Afterwards Fies and an officer walked into James McGrath's saloon, north of the railroads, and found Moore there with a bundle under his arm. The man was put under arrest and it was found that the coat was wrapped up in the bundle. Moore demanded an attorney, but didn't have one, and this morning he pleaded guilty to the charge.

He explained that he did not know what possessed him to take the coat, that he did not need it, and that he had been coming to Marion for fifteen years and had never done anything of the kind before.

Acting Mayor McKinley then told him that he had no use for fellows of that kind who forgot that coats owned by others were not their own and walked off with them, and such citizens could be of but little use to the community, and he intended to place the prisoner where he could think over the matter for a time. He then gave him the sentence mentioned.

Moore is evidently a farmer or laboring man, and it is not believed that he resides at Caledonia. He is a man of forty years and speaks a strong Irish accent. He was at home in the court room and evidently had been there before He refused to speak in regard to his private life, but simply said that he lived at Caledonia or near there.

William Copeland is a fugitive from justice, and the warrants issued against him were sworn out on serious charges. He is accused with stealing a horse and buggy and two suits of clothes, but when the officers got after him he skipped out. He was seen Wednesday night at the lime kilns. Marshal Blain was in hot pursuit of him at that time and had left the quarries about twenty minutes before Copeland arrived there. Copeland left the city about 4 o'clock and went north. He spent the night at the quarries, sleeping in one of the sheds that surround the lime kilns. He arose about 5 o'clock this morning and started northwest across the fields.

Copeland learned of the warrant a few minutes after it was issued. It is supposed that he has disposed of the two suits of clothes, but no trace can be found of them.

Copeland is the man who wanted to kill his wife and other relatives with a razor last summer. His latest effort will very likely send him over the road.

Isaac Fox visited the city prison this morning and turned over to Marshal Blain three plates. The plates and an equal number of cakes had been stolen from the King home during a social gathering last week. Mrs. King wanted the boys punished but did not care to have a warrant issued, and only wanted to get the plates returned. Young Fox took them to the marshal today and made a statement of the case. Six boys were engaged in the stealing or assisted in eating the cakes.

The pile of wood at the city prison is rapidly being split. This morning ten strapping big tramps sawed and split a nice pile. Marshal Blain is elated over the way he is getting them to take hold of the ax and saw, but will have to sell the wood if it keeps on piling up.

THE CASE SETTLED

THROCKMORTON DARMODY DAMAGE SUIT AMICABLY SETTLED.

The Terms of the Settlement Are Not Made Public—Today's Session of Common Pleas Court—Assignment of Cases Made.

The case of Throckmorton against Darmody came up in the court of common pleas for trial this morning, W. Z Davis and J. A. Wolford appearing for the plaintiff and J. F. McNeal & Sons and Scofield, Durfee & Scofield, for the defendant.

The case will be remembered as one in which Throckmorton sued Darmody for $21,000, $100 of which was for medical services, and $20,000 damage done to his person by the act of defendant in cutting him with a pen knife.

Before the jury was sworn the parties and their attorneys got together and the case was settled by agreement, but the terms of settlement are not made public.

The following assignment of cases was made in the court of common pleas this morning:

Crowley & Scanlan vs. the City of Marion, Monday, November 18.

Ulsh vs. Young, Wednesday, November 20.

Ulsh vs. Young, Thursday, November 21.

Drake vs. Lill, Friday, November 22.

Bank vs. Bell, Wednesday, December 2.

A demurrer to the petition in the case of Higgins against The Marion Steam Shovel company was argued before Judge Norris in the court of common pleas this morning, John A. Wolford appearing for the company and E B. Finley, of Bucyrus, appearing for Higgins. The case is one brought to recover damages for injury to the person of the plaintiff while in the employ of defendant.

The court took the matter under advisement and will decide the demurrer at some future date.

GUNNING ACCIDENT

Wm. Bosely Is Slightly Wounded While Out Hunting.

Robert Sweney is regretting an accident that occurred Tuesday noon, which was the means of wounding William Bosely, a boy aged 17 years, and a son of John Bosely, one of the tenants on the Conklin farm, north of this city.

Robert and young Bosely were shooting quail in the brush. They arranged to hunt in different directions and Mr. Sweney was loading his gun after having made four double shots. As he was arranging the gun he noticed that Bosely was almost directly in front of him and so turned the other way. In the meantime the young man had circled around Sweney annd was just opposite from where he had been when Mr. Sweney was preparing to shoot and just as a covey of birds raised Bosely popped his head out of the bushes and received a part of the load in the head, just over the eyes. He fell to the ground and Sweney running to him thought he had killed him, but fortunately he was not seriously injured. A few of the shot took effect, but only inflicted flesh wounds.

Sweney took the young man to his home, where he was given medical attention, and then returned to the city. It was the boy's own carelessness that caused the accident, which came so near causing him to lose his life.

THE P. KELLY COMPANY

Enjoys a Pleasant Banquet Wednesday Evening.

The members of the firm of P. Kelly & Co. enjoyed a little spread at the cafe of Kellar & Edwards Wednesday night. The upstairs dining room was arranged for the affair, and covers laid for six. A delightful supper of three courses, including quail and game, was served.

After that came cigars, and while the members of the company puffed the fragrant Havanas they talked of the success of the firm, of the work they had accomplished and its future prospects. For three hours the gentlemen enjoyed themselves in this manner and then retired. The following composed the party who partook of the dainties of the board: P. Kelly, W. E. Scofield, Surveyor Harley Hill, J G. Fairbanks, Frank J. Kelleher and J W. Scott.

THE ARIZONA KICKER

AN ATTEMPT MADE TO BRING ABOUT THE OLD ORDER OF THINGS.

In Which Jim Hewson Was Toyed With and Is Now Under the Doctor's Care. One Man Who Has Been Thoroughly Satisfied.

During the three years our predecessor held the office of postmaster of this town his private room—the postoffice was the rendezvous of a gang of idlers and loafers. When we assumed the reins of government, we publicly announced that no one would be admitted to this room except on official business. The gang took it rather hard, and we certainly lost prestige as a good fellow, but we carried our point. Now and then an attempt has been made to bring about a return to the good old state of affairs, but we have always come out on top. Last Saturday old Jim Hewson, who detests progress and despises innovation, made up his mind to override us or perish on the spot. When we entered the postoffice after dinner, we found him seated at the table in our private room. He had his feet cocked up on our last monthly report and was smoking an old pipe and pawing over official documents and feeling very much at home.

Mr Hewson expected us to stop to argue and protest, and during such interval he would pull his gun and make us back water. When we suspected and confounded him was in making an immediate attack. The grin with which he greeted us had only covered half his face when we had him by the neck. For about three minutes we toyed with the mustache, nose, and then heaved him out of the window on the sidewalk. He left behind him his guns, his hat, one boot, his coattails, a handful of hair, one eyebrow and two front teeth, and at the present writing he is under the doctor's care and anxiously inquiring if the earthquake destroyed the whole town. We will state again that the postmaster's private room is for the postmaster alone. Outsiders are admitted only on official business. Mr. Hewson is now thoroughly satisfied on this point, but if there is any other critter in this locality who has any doubts about it he is invited to enter unannounced.

We Admit It.

Our esteemed contemporary was out with a sensational article last week holding us up to ridicule for being chased out of Pine Hill by an indignant mob of citizens whom we had insulted in a grievous manner. The affair is very easily explained. Ten days ago we were invited to go over to Pine Hill and deliver our lecture on "Was There an Earthly Paradise?" We deliver this lecture now and then for the benefit of charity, and this is the first time any audience has found fault with it. We take the ground that there was a paradise, and we enumerate many things which went to make it so. Pine Hill is a town of 210 saloons and one store. Nineteen out of every 20 Pine Hillers are drunk from Monday morning to Saturday night. Because we didn't mention whisky as one of the factors going to make up an earthly paradise we hurt their feelings, and a row was the result.

We own right up that we got off the platform as soon as the eggs began to fly. We not only got off the platform, but out of the building. We were shot at as we ran for our mule, but once on his back we kept ahead of pursuit. Yes; we were egged and stoned and shot at and chased for five miles, but we don't feel very bad over it. There were 350 men in the crowd, and we are not idiot enough to imagine that we can stand off a gang of that size. We are tickled to death to think we brought home our scalp with all the hair on it, and we grin with delight as we figure up that the crowd must have wasted at least 500 bullets. There may be an editor in this great and glorious territory fool enough to stand up to a mob howling for his blood, but we are not in it.

No, Thanks.

A Chicago dealer in shoes whose advertisement will be found in another column writes to ask if we will accept a pair of pointed toe shoes as a token of esteem in which he holds The Kicker as a family paper and an advertising medium. We reply that we feel highly flattered, but we can't accept the gift. If we had the shoes, we should feel like wearing them, and if we put on those pointed toes and took a stroll along Apache avenue we know just what would happen. Jim Skinner, Hank White, Bob Taylor and the rest of the crowd love us and would tackle a mad grizzly to prove it, but they don't love us well enough to permit us to crowd the twenty-first century down their throats. About the time we get to spitting over our shoulders and slinging on Broadway style the boys would out with their guns and begin shooting, and if we got back to the office with a toe left we'd be in great luck. It's natural to us to be a spitt and a Jim dandy, and tears come to our eyes when we think of those shoes, but we know the feeling of our people and have no desire to furnish a victim for a funeral.

A Laughable Affair.

For several weeks past Mr. John Day, the genial landlord of the Golden Nugget hotel, has been at odds with Captain Bill Thompson, proprietor of the Last Chance saloon. As we understand it, they got into a dispute over politics, and both made threats of what they would do at some future time. Sunday afternoon last they met on Cochise place and renewed the quarrel. Each had two guns, and after calling each other liars and such they proceeded to shoot. We hope and believe that for a week, and we think for a week of the men as the ball opened, and when we hurried to the scene we found it funny enough to make us sit down and laugh. Each man was dodging about like a puppet, trying to get behind a tree, and as fast as one ran into the ground, and it is estimated that 24 bullets were fired and no one hurt. Both guns were empty, they threw them away and began to cry and pull hair. The shooting attracted a crowd, and when it was learned that neither was wounded both combatants were hooted off the street. Up to date both have remained in seclusion, and it will be well for them to keep it up for another week. Such shooting as that in a town like this is simply abominable, and if the parties named indulge in any more of it they will leave town astride of a rail.—M. Quad in Detroit Free Press.

A Small Job.

He (with personal narrative, fearfully thrilling)—To collect my scattered wits was the work of a moment.

She (musing, oh, so sweetly!)—Yes; it would hardly take longer.—Ally Sloper.

A Thrifty Soul.

The workings of the feminine mind are sometimes truly wonderful. There is a wealthy woman in the west end who makes a proud boast of her economics, and is never known to get by a bargain counter without making a purchase. The other day we were walking together on Seventh street, near F, when a cart filled with Tokay grapes, bearing the tempting label, "10 cents a pound," caught her eye.

"I must have some of those," she exclaimed. "Give me five pounds," to the man.

"What shall I put zem in?" asked the Italian, who had nothing in which to wrap so large a quantity.

"To be sure. What shall I put them in?" she ruminated, and finally darted into a store to buy a basket, and she decided in favor of one which had been reduced from $1.50 to 50 cents. "It is such a bargain," she said. The basket procured, she went back to the Italian.

"Now my grapes," she said, and the swarthy dago began filling her basket with small, indifferent bunches.

"I don't want those," said my economical friend. "Give me the large, handsome bunches from the other pile."

"Dove 15 cent ze pound," said the merchant.

Then followed a little colloquy. My friend's eyes grew bright, her cheeks red, and she waxed eloquent. It ended at last in her paying 15 cents for the large bunches. Her purchase now amounted to $1.25 as against 75 cents the grapes would have cost at market or a shop and delivered at her own door, and how to get them home was a question.

This difficulty she ultimately solved by hiring a small boy, who consented to carry them for a consideration of 15 cents and two car tickets. Altogether she expended $1.50, and on reaching home found the little Senegambian had made off with half the grapes, but she still insists that she saved money by the deal.—Washington Post.

No Doubt About It.

"Look here, young fellow," said the gentleman with the waxed mustache to the tramp who was stealthily approaching the vicinity of the free lunch counter, "if you're at all superstitious, I'd have you know that you're the thirteenth man who has worked that free lunch today."

"Well, I guess 13 is dead unlucky," replied the itinerant. No. 12 seems to have got the last of it."—Yonkers Statesman.

Too Much.

"Chawles," said Willie Wishington to his friend, "I'll have to give it up, don't you know. I'm defeated, and that's all there is to it."

"What's the matter?"

"Pwince of Wales is learning to wide a bicycle."

"Well, you can ride a wheel, can't you?"

"Yaas. But think of having to fall off every time he does!"—Washington Star.

Not All Fun.

A small and unrepressible boy up town, who knows what is going on in the neighborhood and keeps his own family better informed as to their neighbors' affairs than they wish to be, broke out at the dinner table the other night with the news of local events. "There's having a pretty hard time at the Kirby's. They've got the measles, croup and whooping cough and a skunk in the front yard."—Buffalo Commercial.

The Course of Love.

"Do you really love me?"

"Have you not my word?"

"I prefer negotiable paper."

SCIENCE AND PROGRESS.

How the Sun Draws Water and the Cause of the Cow's Foot In the Milk.

Light is only perceived when it enters the eye in straight lines. Whatever its nature may be, it is quite certain that light is itself invisible, as may be shown by a simple experiment which Popular Science News presents in illustration of this statement.

A tube should be made—by rolling pasted brown paper round a wooden cylinder—and lined with dead black paper. The bottom of this is closed, but one end is left open to be looked into. Two large holes, which are shown at HH in Fig. 1, one on each side, make a wide opening to admit strong light across the tube only. A smaller hole is also bored, for the purpose to be immediately explained. Now let the sunlight, entering, say, through a hole in the shutter of a darkened room, shine through the side apertures of our tube, going in at one and coming out at the other, and let us look into the tube. We shall see nothing. Everything is perfectly dark. If now, though, through the little hole we introduce a toothbrush handle, or the finger, or a bit of white paper, into the course of the rays, this instantly reflects a portion of such rays of the crossing beam of light and so reveals their existence. A moment's consideration will show that were light, as light, not invisible, the whole of our night sky outside of the conical shadow of the earth must be a blaze of light, as, of course, the sun's rays are traversing it everywhere.

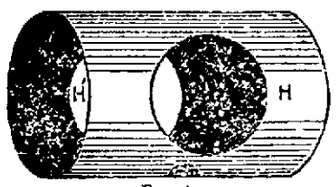

FIG. 1.

FAST EXPERIMENTS IN PHYSICS

But one may ask: "If what you say is true, how do you account for those faultless rays, seemingly emanating from the sun, which country people call 'the sun drawing water?' Why is it that you can often track the beam of light from a policeman's lantern, like a comet's tail? And how is it that in a room with the shutters closed and the sun shining through a chink in them, you can trace the light across from the shutter to the floor?" The answer is "that, in the first two cases, particles of vapor, and, in the third case, of dust, play the part of our toothbrush handle and reflect to our eyes some of the crossing light.

Among interesting phenomena of reflected light is that known as the "caustic curve," produced by reflection from a concave cylindrical surface. A familiar illustration of such luminous curves is seen in a cup of milk when a sunbeam or other strong light shines obliquely into it. Children sometimes speak of the appearance as "the cow's foot" in the milk, and it looks quite as much like this as the "man in the moon" does like a human face. To illustrate it by another experiment take a board, B, painted white or covered with white paper pasted upon it, and with a curved groove cut in it when the paste is dry, to hold the piece of watchspring, WS. If, now, the light be allowed to fall obliquely on the spring, the beautiful curve, CCC, will at once become visible.

How Nature Makes Species.

The point has been made in Meehan's Monthly that what are passed over as curiosities or monstrosities in the vegetable kingdom are often special lessons which nature spreads before us, to teach the manner in which she performs her regular operations. A twin peach gives just such an interesting lesson. Meehan's explains that, taking an apple, we find that it has five cells. The inside surface of these cells is smooth and somewhat bony, like the inside of a peach stone. But there is more than one seed in the apple cell, though in a peach cell, or "stone," there are often two, and sometimes three, kernels. It may be said that the peach stone is the equivalent of one cell in an apple.

When nature makes species she often does it by suppressing parts that are developed in others. And this is what occurs when nature makes a peach. Four of the five cells in the apple are abortive, and one only is developed. But the power to produce the suppressed cells is still there, and is sometimes exercised. In this twin peach this has been done. Two carpels have come to perfection. What is known as the suture in the peach is the line where the original leaf which forms the carpel is folded. This lesson is sometimes better taught in the case of the double flowered peaches. Double flowered peaches occasionally fruit, and in these cases two and sometimes three carpels are brought to perfection.

In ordinary chemical analysis the one hundred and twentieth of a grain approaches very nearly the lowest limit of practical determination. The spectroscope, however, is so sensitive that it can tell the presence of a substance when the quantity is nearly 2,000,000 times less than this or one two hundred and forty millionth of a grain.

THE HOUSEHOLD.

Distinguishing Points by Which Good Table Birds May Easily Be Recognized.

The intelligent and judicious choice of birds intended for table purposes is a subject which every housewife ought carefully to study, as it forms a very important item in practical housekeeping. The points necessary to remember are few and simple, and doubtless they are fully understood by experienced readers. Still, as we must all be young housekeepers before we can be old ones, it may prove helpful to many who have not as yet given much thought to the matter to enumerate briefly the distinguishing points by which good table birds may very easily be recognized.

The best chickens are those with small bones, short legs and clean, firm, white looking flesh. The white legged birds are generally considered the best for boiling and those with black legs the best for roasting. Cocks should have short spurs, smooth legs and a short, smooth, bright colored comb, while hens should also be smooth legged and full breasted.

Capons, when really fine, have a fat vein under each the wing, a short, pale comb and smooth legs. The breast of a prime duck should be plump and firm, and the skin should be clear, fresh looking and pleasant to the touch. When, therefore, the indications are the reverse of these, the bird is either old or stale.

A goose, when young and fresh, has a plump breast, white, cool skin and yellow, pliable feet, while a turkey in the same prime condition has perfectly smooth, black legs, firm flesh, bright eyes and supple feet. The age of a cock turkey can easily be told by the length of his spurs, but when purchasing, choose, if possible, a hen.

Brown Betty.

Butter a pie dish and prepare a quantity of fine, soft bread crumbs and an equal measure of sliced apple. Put in alternate layers of each, adding on top of the bread bits of butter and on the apple sugar and grated nutmeg. Moisten all with water and have a thin layer of the crumbs first and last. Bake till tender and brown, adding water if it seems dry and covering if it browns too quickly. Let it cool half an hour; then spread with a meringue made by whipping the whites of 2 eggs with 4 tablespoonfuls of sugar and a quarter teaspoonful of vanilla. Let it brown slightly in the oven.

A Fancy Bag.

A bag for holding odds and ends pictured in The Delineator employs two handkerchiefs in its construction. One is of linen embroidered, and the other is hemstitched and of yellow silk. The linen handkerchief is adjusted over the silk one in such a way that its corners come between those of the silken one. Tiny gilt rings are sewed at intervals inside the bag, the two handkerchiefs being stitched together. Through the rings is slipped gold cord, by which to draw the bag closely. The idea is a clever one, and as to the usefulness of such a bag there can be no argument.

MADE WITH TWO HANDKERCHIEFS

Washing Woolens.

One authority on such matters advises as follows: Place the articles to be washed in warm soap water, and to about 4 gallons of water add 2 tablespoonfuls of best liquid ammonia. This will immediately remove all grease and perspiration without rubbing, which must be avoided. After lightly wringing pass through two separate quantities of lukewarm water. Dry immediately—if possible in the open air—and iron them when half dry. Washing out quickly is particularly advised, as it prevents them from shrinking.

Fashionable Odors.

Among new odors for the atomizer are vetivose, a delicious and lasting essence of white roses; heliotrope, a deep golden, heavily sweet odor, a drop of which is sufficient to perfume a handkerchief; violetol, made of the finest and "purest" and most fragrant of Nice violets; jasmac, made from the famous Spanish jasmine; moskalily, very sweet and lasting, and nalanotis, distilled from a mixture of oriental wild flowers.

How to Make Chocolate.

Put 1½ pints of milk over the fire, preferably in a saucepan kept specially for the purpose. Shave an ounce of chocolate quite fine and put into a cup or tiny pan with a tablespoonful of boiling water. Stir till smooth and glossy; then turn it into the boiling milk and beat with a wire egg beater till frothy. Pour into a jug or chocolate pot and send to table at once.

Ham Balls.

We will suppose that half a ham has been boiled and used up till only a little meat, chiefly lean, is left on an ugly bone. Cut off every particle and chop fine or pass through the mincing machine. Mold into balls or cakes with an equal quantity of mashed potato and brown in the frying pan.

White Pique Slacks.

Women who find that linen collar chafe the skin are now wearing with the Norfolk jackets and golf capes their cloth or cheviot [illegible]. These slacks, explains the New York Herald, are nothing more nor less than an extra long four inch [illegible] put twice around the ankle [illegible] tied. There is a little [illegible] in them, which at first is difficult but when conquered, gives the trousers the [illegible] and is very much [illegible] than a stiff buckle collar and tie.

An Improvement.

Old Pompous (opposed to women wheeling)—Just see what the cycling fad has done for woman—she is found now in the middle of the road riding with the horses.

Mrs. Upto-date—Well, at least there's one comfort about that: it is better than walking on the sidewalk with donkeys.—New York Tribune.

Mother Gray's Sweet Worm Powders were successfully used in treating children's complaints by Mother Gray, for years a nurse in the Children's Home at New York. They will certainly remove all kinds of worms, and when a child is feverish, with bad stomach and irregular bowels, they always cure. Pleasant and harmless as milk. Mothers should give Mother Gray's Sweet Worm Powders to their children occasionally through the year. They prevent worms forming.

THE CITY IN BRIEF.

John Groff, a brother of Mrs. C. O Drew, died at Lancaster Tuesday Mrs Drew was at his bedside at the time of his death.

Charles Highly and Miss Myrtle Sickle were licensed to marry in the probate court Wednesday. The wedding will occur in Claridon township this evening

The directors of The Marion Mirror company held a meeting Wednesday evening after which they repaired to the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Padgett, of High street, and were charmingly entertained.

There was a social affair at the home of Amos Taylor, north of this city, Wednesday night Over one hundred guests were present and it was not until the break of day that the last of the guests had departed Dancing was indulged in. Among the guests were quite a number from this city

The Elks will entertain this evening. A program has been arranged, and a banquet is to follow, after which there will be games and an hour or so of sociability. There will be a regular lodge meeting at 7 o'clock, and at 8 o'clock the reception of the guests will commence There will be over two hundred at the meeting.

The work of making the first brew will not be commenced today as was intended, and it will likely be the first of next week before the Marion brewery can be started in full blast. The cause of the set back is due to the fact that a pinion on the main shaft of the mash tub was accidentally broken, and until this is repaired it cannot be started to going again.

Newt Childers left today for Indianapolis and hopes to be able to secure the horn that Frank Ackerman took away with him The horn cost nearly sixty dollars, and Ackerman had an interest in it, but had no right to take the instrument away. An effort will be made to buy his interest, which is but a few dollars, from him, but if he refuses to give it up, he will be arrested.

THE DEVIL OF NAMES!

DR. LANCELY'S argument regarding the use of printer's ink and newspaper space to delude the unweary customers, is timely and correct. Honesty in advertisements is not only the best policy but inspires all that read them with confidence, while dishonest and exaggerated ads. prove a boomerang, to the merchants that resort to them.

The scores of dissatisfied customers who have been lured to the so-called bargain sales by what this distinguished Canadian calls the Devil in Names are ready to agree that old mephisto has got his work in on Marion. But not here, as proof of our claim of always adhering to truth in advertising, we call your attention to the following:

THE BLUE FRONT CLOTHING HOUSE.

GREAT REMODELING SALE!

OUR present quarters are entirely too small to give our increasing trade the proper attention it desires and we find it necessary to make an addition to our already large room. With this idea in view we have leased for a long term of years the room formerly occupied by the Chas. Lotze meat market. In a few short weeks the noise of the saw and the clang of the hammer will be heard for it is our intention to entirely alter the interior of the newly acquired room and make it in all ways suitable to our wants. In fact we propose to make it the model clothing house of Marion--a home store of which the citizens of Marion will be proud. Now, in order to get room for the mechanics to work in and, better still, that we may open up our new home with an entire new stock throughout, we call your attention to that part of the deal which

Will Interest You All!

We must make room and we are going to do it by offering you goods at such prices that you will buy even if you have sufficient to fill your present wants in the clothing line. We're going to offer goods so cheap you will be glad to come and take them away. Whether you have any idea of buying or not our prices will make sales, but if the thought has come to you of buying anything in the way of

MEN'S, BOYS' OR CHILDREN'S FINE TAILOR-MADE CLOTHING,

Furnishing Goods, Hats, Caps, Gloves, Etc.,

Then come to our great Remodeling Sale and you'll see the most wonderful price reductions ever offered; you will find it the most gigantic sacrifice sale of which you ever heard, in which the opportunity will be extended you to exchange

One Dollar For Two

Dollars' worth of goods. Every article has been reduced to a skeleton price. If you doubt, look!

Men's Dark Suits or Overcoats, worth $4.75, now	$2.75	Children's Suits, worth $1.25, now	65c
Men's All-wool Cheviot Suits or Overcoats, worth $8.50, now	$4.75	Merino Shirts, worth 25 cents, now	12½c
Men's All-wool Cassimere Suits or Overcoats, worth $12.00, now	$7.50	Men's Natural Wool Shirts or Drawers, worth 50 cents, now	29c
Men's Fine Clay Worsted Suits, worth $12.50 to $15, now	$8.50	Men's All-wool Red Shirts or Drawers, worth 75 cents, now	37½c

Men's All-wool Beaver Overcoats, worth $8.50, now	$5.00	Working Mittens for 10 cents. Good Leather Gloves for	25c

Everything else goes at the same cut rates but space will not permit mention of the hundreds of bargains We can not tell you of all the bargains offered, but call and we will be pleased to show them to you. Bear in mind that "The Early Bird Catches the Worm" and that such chances come but once in a generation. Let there be no mistake. This great sale commences

SATURDAY, NOV. 16,

And lasts until the stock is reduced and the entire wants of the people of Marion and Marion county are supplied.
